Maysville People Give 'Em Away With Sticks of Chewing Gum.

Vincennes Star.

Will Plummer of this place found a valuable diamond ring belonging to C. D. Russell in Mr. Russell's store while attending the Elks Fair in Maysville last week. He picked it up from the floor and offered it to his brother-in-law, J. L. Nicholson, who travels for Mr. Russell. He refused to take it, saying "We give those things away with a cake of chewing gum here." Later Mr. Russell missed his ring and the fact was published in the Maysville papers. Mr. Plummer saw the notice in the paper and sent the ring to the owner. This little circumstance shows the true value of a diamond ring. Thank the Lord, Editors don't have to worry over the loss of diamonds.

Memorial Tributes!

MAYSVILLE'S CONDOLENCE

Touching Tributes to the Nation's Dead Chieftain.

SERVICES AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Yesterday will long be remembered in Maysville. With the somber emblems of mourning on every hand; with the doors of all the business houses closed; with the wheels of busy factories hushed; with throngs of citizens of all stations and creeds wending their way to the First Baptist Church to attend the Memorial Services in honor of the Nation's dead Chief Magistrate, the city presented a picture of universal sympathy and grief.

Partisanship—thank God—was relegated to the rear and Patriotism was triumphant; the Democrat vied with the Republican; the old Confederate walked beside the ex-Federal soldier; the Jew struck hands with the Gentile; the Catholic mourned with the Protestant—each remembering that while they entertained divergent political or religious beliefs, they were, first of all, Americans.

SERVICES AT THE CHURCH.

When the hour arrived for the services to begin the organ gave out the strains of a funeral march, which was followed by a fervent invocation for consolation to her who is enshrouded in gloom; for succor for the National life and for Divine guidance upon all in authority over us.

All hearts were now attuned to the sacred and sorrowful aspects which enveloped them, and the hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," seemed to have new force and sweetness as it came from the choir.

Then the reading of Scripture by Rev. Howard T. Cree from John's Gospel was the prelude to "Thy Will Be Done," which was especially appropriate as a hymn to prepare the way for the second prayer, delivered by Dr. Molloy.

The first speaker was the Rev. W. F. Taylor, D.D., as follows:

Of the twenty rulers slain in the last century, it is said, eleven were Presidents of Republics. In seven years, it is claimed, two Presidents of Republics, one Monarch, one Empress and one Prime Minister have been shot by Anarchists, and the life has been attempted of the heir of the British throne. In one generation three Presidents in our own land have fallen by the hand of assassins—the last an Anarchist—that is a fact of government of humanity and of God—confessing that against Mr. McKinley as a man he had no feeling, but that he intended to kill him as the President of the United States.

Are we smitten with imbecility? Is self-preservation the first law of nature and the Government no right to exercise it? Is it provinces only to punish and not to prevent crime? Is it to foster and nourish schools of murder, and war in its own bosom the viper that is to be its death? Liberty is a great boon—liberty of speech and action. Republics can tolerate no inquisition which will suppress private opinion. The alien and sedition laws of 1798, with the revolt that followed, is proof positive of this. Criticism of men and measures, official with their policies and administration is necessary to the purity and perpetuity of the Government. But perfectly consistent with this is a law which will make an assault upon the President, when made to obstruct the Government, a felony and punishable with death; and also a law which will suppress in every form and in every place the miserable and infamous Anarchist plot which the President's death shall secure enactment and enforcement of these laws he will not have died, as he has not lived, in vain.

How grandly did he live, as citizen, soldier, Congressman, Governor and President. What industry, integrity, fidelity, firmness, independence and courage. Such confidence did he inspire in his sincerity and ability that at home and abroad he was trusted by those who were not in harmony with his measures. How signal was his success in events of world-wide influence. In the war that struck the shackles from the slaves to tyranny, the Peace Conference, the open door and restraint put upon the Powers in China, the purchase of the Danish West Indies and the saving of sections of our own land, the capstone of which was put on when he proposed that the Government should share with the South the privilege of caring for her Confederate dead.

Jeweler and Optician

How kind his heart and how enriched by his experiences the highest sense a gentleman, How genial and tender! What masterly self-control and deference for others. This was one of the secrets of his power. How fully it is manifested in his regret that he should be the occasion of trouble to the Managers of the Exposition, in his solicitude that the assassin should not be hurt, and in the admonition to be careful about his wife and not let her know. These expressions at this crisis are the true index of his heart and life. And how signal in this crisis has been the private and public response. What a tribute to Mr. McKinley's heart when the stalwart Senator Hanna, of whom we have thought only as the political leader or the master of finance, knelt at the dying bed of his political and personal friend and cried, "Mr. President, can't you see me, don't you know me?" William, William, speak to me!" Or when the Cincinnati Festival choruses of a thousand, rehearsing for a memorial service, sang the first line of "Lead Kindly Light," but break down and leave the hall "amid the enrapturing glow." Indeed what a tribute to his heart with the Nation, North and South, and, in fact, the civilized world standing in tears at his bier.

But it was not all nature. It was nature permeated and transfigured by grace. The lips that chanted "Nearer, My God, to Thee" were not learning a new song. To the "Way of God" and the "Will of God" he was no stranger. In "this way" his feet had walked for many years, and the "will of God" had been the unconditional motive of his action, the deep and all pervading spring of his life. It was not a submission to the inevitable. Not the defiance born of slighted mercies and insulted justice, but the cheerful acceptance of "a way" whose termination is heaven, and of "a will" which puts his into harmony with his eternal environment and with the eternal throne.

Hymn—"Thy Will Be Done."

Rev. Dr. John Harboure followed without ceremony, saying—
If our language seem extravagant today, it is the extravagance of affection. It is not the fulsome adulation laid at the feet of Princes. It is born of pride in one who was the fine product of our institutions.

We fail to realize how great some lives are until they are snatched from us, and we see them lifted up—"as skyed"—as Shakespeare phrases it—in the light of some great heroism. Then we know how much nobleness is mixed

SENTIMENTS STRONGLY AMERICAN.

"Expansion."—At Oklahoma, July 4, 1900.

"As it is with the individual, so it is with the Nation. You of Oklahoma founded this territory, this state that is to be, because you came here, not seeking a life of ease, but anxious to grapple with difficulties, and out of toil and labor and peril to achieve the splendid ultimate triumph. So it must be with the Nations of the earth, a Nation that is fit to play its part among the great peoples."

At St. Joseph, Mo., on July 5, 1900.

"Peace cannot be had until the civilized Nations of the world have expanded in some shape or other over barbarous Nations."

At Emporia, Kan., July 7, 1900.

"Why are you here today? Because you expanded over Kansas. You sent your sons to the Philippines to dig the sons' blood waters the soil of those islands. The flag is there and it won't come down."

"The Nation and the Decalogue."—At Oklahoma, July 11, 1900.

"No Nation, no matter how glorious its history, can exist unless it practices—practices, mind you, not merely preaches—civility, honesty, civic decency, civic righteousness. No Nation can permanently prosper unless the decalogue and the golden rule are its guides in public as in private life."

"Idle Chatter of Militarism."—At St. Paul, Minn., July 21, 1900.

"Of all idle chatter, the talk of danger of militarism is the idiest. It is as utterly futile to talk of our liberties being menaced by the existence of a force capable of keeping order in our outlying possessions now as it would have been to talk of their being menaced by the return of the soldiers who followed Custer and his fellows against the Comanches, Apaches and Sioux. Have your liberties been menaced by the return of the soldiers and Dakota troops, who won such honor for themselves in the Philippines?"

"Enforce the Monroe Doctrine."—At the Dedication of the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y., May 29, 1900.

"I believe with all my heart in the Monroe Doctrine. This doctrine is not to be invoked for the aggrandizement of any one of us on this continent at the expense of anyone else on this continent. It should be regarded simply as a great international Pan-American policy, vital to the interests of all of us."

"The United States has, and ought to have, and must ever have, only the desire to see her sister Republics of the Western Hemisphere continue to flourish, and the determination that no World Power shall acquire territory here on this Western continent."

"Joy and Pride in the Union."—Speech at Burlington, Vt., September 1, 1901.

"We can retain an ever-growing sense of the all importance, not merely to our people, but to mankind, of the Union victory, while giving the freest and heartiest recognition to the sincerity and self-devotion of those Americans, our fellow-countrymen, who then fought against the stars in their courses. Now there is none left, North or South, who does not take pride and joy in the Union; and when three years ago we were made to face a foreign enemy, the heart of every true American thrilled with pride to see warriors who had fought in the Confederate uniform once more appear under Uncle Sam's colors, side by side with their former foes, and leading to victory upon the famous old flag the sons of both of those who had worn the blue and of those who had worn the gray."

TELL-TALE LETTER.

Deemster Found On a Prisoner That Promises to Furnish a Clue to a Conspiracy.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 20.—On the person of a wounded prisoner, an anarchist, the police have found a letter mailed from the anarchist two weeks before the shooting of President McKinley that promises to furnish a clue to a conspiracy.

The letter contained two printed circulars, strange mixtures of letters and figures. They have been, but partially translated. Some expressions already deciphered are: "Boast at Buffalo exposition." "Whatever happened is to be repeated." "Lincoln's assassin." "Real anarchist known only to Lewis, the light." "Anarchist dreams of doing duty." "So in the matter of the president life." "People perish for lack of wisdom." "Prevention better than cure." "Socialism skulking out of anarchy into respectability repudiates the tactics of the bullet." "Emma." "Twenty-five years struggling for socialism."

The circulars are headed "The rule eye-X." Words are ingenious, but the meaning is obscure at points, so as to appear as Biblical references.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Daniel J. Brown Shot His Wife, Father-in-Law and Himself at Carlinville, Ill.

Carlinville, Ill., Sept. 20.—Daniel J. Brown shot his wife, his father-in-law, James C. Fitzgerald, of Jerseyville, Ill., and then himself at his former home in this city at 1 o'clock Thursday.

Brown had been quarreling with his wife Thursday over the ownership of certain property at her home, where Fitzgerald resided. Brown thereupon shot his wife, the bullet striking a corner stay. She was not hurt. He then fired at his father-in-law, and turned a pistol on himself, the ball entering above the heart. Brown and Fitzgerald are still alive, and the wife is doing all that is possible to relieve the sufferings of her wounded husband and father, but neither of the men will live.

W. Vischer Burdick, who recently received the Civil Service appointment as sub-Railway Mail Clerk, has been assigned to the L. and N. Railroad between Cincinnati and Elizabethtown, Ky.

He went on duty on Thursday last week.

If any of THE LEADER'S country patrons are short on cash and long on jams, they are respectfully reminded that nearly the opposite conditions prevail at this end of the line.

with our common life. The wonderful symmetry of McKinley's life impresses me. It was the beautiful blend of elements not often seen together—

"It was as gentle as the elements, so simple in its nature, and so grand in its scope."

He was a man of intense convictions united with perfect deference to others. He was a party man, a man of determined policy, but he knew how to consider others. He won men. He aimed to be the President of the whole Republic. This has been the special lesson of his life to me, and is it not the very spirit of Americanism? This is no place for bigotry or partisanship in politics or religion. His public and private life beautifully balanced. One of the busiest of men, with great and perilous affairs upon his hands, yet he always found time for wife and friends and neighbor. His country gallantry added to his larger National spirit, won him the hearts of the Southland.

He showed that a great statesman can be a humble child of God. His greatness was rooted in religion. Mr. McKinley was a child of the Church, a communicant and regular attendant at her altar. It was her faith sustained him at the last, her hymns, her prayers expressed the movements of his spirit in the awful crisis of his life.

What a lesson for all the world! An American President, when dies, lays himself down with all the consolations of the Cross. The malice of Anarchy falls harmless before our God. He was taught to say, "Thy will be done."

Rev. Howard T. Cree spoke of the Christian virtues of the dead President and drew a picture of the precious heritage he left the Nation.

As the strains of "Lead, Kindly Light," came from the organ a tension drew the hearers' eyes as the dear old song never did before. Mr. Boyd K. Muse sang it most fittingly.

At its conclusion Dr. John C. Molloy spoke. He briefly detailed the story of the tragedy of September 6th, with the resultant confusion and woe. Above the uproar of Niagara—from which the President had just returned—hangs an eternal rainbow illustrating "the bright side" even to this great tragedy. First—it is well with the dead hero. McKinley's place on the hill and in the hearts of his people is only more firmly fixed by the assassin's bullet. Better still, he lived and died a Christian, and Gospel consolation tells us it is well with him.

Second—it is well with the people. The tears of hearted men, the outpouring of universal sympathy, show that the heart of America is sound and true; no better people than Americans. And fully has been shown the unity of the people, and the absence of sectional bitterness vanished amid the tears over this man's bier.

Third—There are signs of profiting by the blow; indifference to bloodshed the night, September 20th, at 7 o'clock, to discuss the advisability of remaining in the Federal Aid Association. JAMES W. DUFFEN, President. BEN F. SMITH, Secretary.

The first killing frost last fall came on the 17th of October.

Fourth—The Christian life and death of the President, preached at a pressing Gospel sermon which will surely bear fruit in all the earth.

The Rev. F. V. Hymor closed the address in a beautiful tribute to the worth of the man in every relation in life.

America was sung by the audience. Dr. Taylor pronounced the benediction and the immense congregation solemnly moved from the sacred edifice impressed as no other congregation ever was in Maysville.

The Cincinnati Traction Company decorated all the cars of the line with emblems of mourning Thursday, and for five minutes after the beginning of the funeral service at Canton there were no cars run. The entire system came to a stop for that time as a mark of respect for the dead Executive.

The Kentucky river is on a rampage at Irvine.

The Bonanza will pass down tonight for Cincinnati.

The snagboat E. A. Woodruff is on her way to headwaters.

The Keystone State had a nice start last night for Pittsburgh.

The Steamboat Inspectors say the Yemas will have a new boiler.

There will be a shipment of Kanawha coal made on the present rise.

Digests what you Eat
Dyspepsia Cure

There is one certain way of curing indigestion and stomach troubles, that is: give your stomach a rest but still eat plenty of good food to keep up the nourishment for your body. You can do this by using KODOL Dyspepsia Cure because it is the one preparation which digests what you eat without aid from the stomach. Nature will then repair your worn out digestive organs and restore them to healthy condition. It relieves that feeling of fullness, belching and distress after eating.

"I suffered with dyspepsia a great many years. I tried many remedies without relief until I used KODOL Dyspepsia Cure. My health has improved and I now feel like a new man." S. J. Flemming, Maitry, Neb.

It can't help but do you good
Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The B. bottle contains 24 times the dose.

An Open Letter.

We desire to say that our business since January 1st has passed the mark anticipated. We wish to be frank; therefore we are not attempting to talk to business people and put it in the form of a polished essay. The advantage of having merchandise different from your competitors is apparent, provided that the retailer is known to be reliable. Does not a good deal of advertising appear to you as though the advertisers were indulging too freely in "True Words"? Most of them seem to say something that means nothing. Names are quoted for goods that have no bearing whatever to the materials; turned and twisted until they are no longer relevant, all of which is done to tone the goods. We are strong believers in advertising because it is a good thing, but advertising doesn't pay unless constructed on a proper basis, and that is to plainly tell people what you have to sell, and sell it as low as is consistent with legitimate business methods.

Our spring importation of Dress Goods, White Goods, Carpets, Mattings and Housekeeping Goods generally is complete. Come and learn prices, which will be found to be as cheap as the cheapest, quality considered. Respectfully, GEORGE COX & SON.

That will be enough to enable you to make any trade and convince you that the quality is all right. Chicago coal is not a mixture of good coal had from different mines, but all coal from the one vein. Being free from stone or dirt, it burns up clean.
